

Verbs

Can you remember the two kinds?

Verbs are doing words...

Verbs tell us what a person or thing are doing they are called 'action' words.

For example:

The mouse ran into the hole.

Verbs are doing words...

Can you figure out
which word is a verb in each of the following sentences?

Verbs

The lady sat in her garden.

Verbs

The worm wriggled away.

Verbs

The boy skipped all the way home.

Not all verbs are doing words...

Nearly all verbs are action words like the ones above, but some verbs tell you about something, instead of what it is doing. These verbs are called 'being' verbs.

For example:

The surgeon is ready for the operation.

Verbs that are 'Being' words

Can you figure out
which word is a verb in each of the following sentences?

Being Verbs

The men were very old.

Being Verbs

I am cold.

Remember

- All sentences contain a verb.
- Verbs are doing words, they describe an action or tell you about something.